

ENTER AT YOUR OWN RISK

DO NOT sort or sift through any fire debris

House debris after a fire is hazardous and may contain toxic materials such as asbestos, lead, mercury, chemicals from household products, and other heavy metals. These materials pose a significant risk to your health.

Fire debris includes:

burned
structural components

burned
household
items

foundations

contaminated
soil

Removing fire debris may also affect your insurance claim or eligibility.
Limit your actions to the reasonable recovery of essential items.
